Tracey King-Ortega

Serving Christ in Central America

As regional liaison for Central America, Tracey helps create better communication among World Mission staff, mission personnel, partner churches and PC (USA) congregations interested in ministry in this region. She facilitates the visits of short-term mission groups, consults with partners and helps organize and sustain country mission networks. She works with all Presbyterian mission co-workers in Central America, supporting and encouraging them in their ministries. "Having my hands and heart in many different places and ministries, my service is about facilitating at the grassroots level while maintaining the big picture perspective," Tracey says.
